BATTLE IS FURIOUSLY CONTESTED

No Advantage to Either Side.

FILLING BLOODY GAPS

Both Sides Rushing Reinforcements to the Front.

HUMAN ENDURANCE STRAINED

Never in the History of the World Has There Been Such Carnage.

London special: The battle of the Alsne, which has endured for eight days, has been the most sanguinary battle in the history of the world. At least 2,600,000 men have contended with the utmost ferocity. The Germans are opposing 1,100,000 to an allied force of 1,500,000.

This estimate of the forces engaged may be retained, because it can be assumed that Germans and allies have obtained reinforcements to fill the gaps made by bullet, shell and bayonet. These troops, after a series of engagements each vital to the general combat, are stretched from north of Noyon to north of Montfaucon, on a line which forms an obtuse angle, running southeast from Noyon to Craonne, Berry Au Bas and Rheims, and thenceforth east and northeast to Montfaucon and the forest of the Argonne. This is the main battle line where human endurance is being put to unimaginable strain to determine whether or not the Germans can again assume the offensive against Paris, or if they are to be broken and hurled back over the frontiers of Belgium, Luxemburg and Lorraine. Up to the present it is a drawn battle. The Germans, evading attempts to envelop their right and left wings, and themselves developing a strong offensive in the center of the battle line, which is east and north of Rheims, have the advantage of entrenched and fortified positions, defenses calmly and skillfully prepared by the German engineers at least three weeks ago. The terrible slaughter of the past eight days has been due largely to the attempts of the allies to capture by frontal attacks of infantry and light artillery the key-points of this strong line of defense.

The Great Battle Lines.

The disposition of the forces remains in general as follows: At the west of the battle line General Von Kluck, constantly in danger from a turning movement, has been forced to give way slightly by an Anglo-French army. At Berry Au Bas and a little east of north of Rheims, General Von Hindenburg and General Von Elze have combined in a furious endeavor to break the French center. At the east end of the line the Grand Duke of Wurttemberg and the crown prince, unable to check the French advance altogether, have nevertheless preserved the integrity of the whole German battle line and are entrenched west and north of Montfaucon.

The series of battles now known as the battle of the Alsne began at Soissons on the morning of Sunday, Sept. 13. Von Kluck, most closely pursued, was therefore to feel the impact of the allies' offensive, an attack strengthened by the confidence gained by the French in the victories of the Marne. The Germans had had time to form behind their carefully prepared intrenchments. Their first aim was to prevent the Anglo-French force from swarming across the river Alsne to ridges which would be favorable for artillery. For several days German cannon were turned upon pontoons built by the allies for fifty miles westward along the Alsne. Time after time these military bridges were destroyed, but the French and British succeeded in crossing the river and in taking elevations where intrenchments were made.

No Definite Advantage.

Almost simultaneously, in the center of the battle, the allies drove the Germans from Rheims, but in succeeding days were unable to dislodge the Germans from intrenchments east and north of that city. The Germans for four days have held the dismantled forts, a ring of old positions which are about six miles in a semi-circle to the north and east of Rheims. Here there has been most desperate fighting without definite advantage to either side. The Germans have essayed many times to take the offensive and to hew their way through the allied center, but counter attacks often delivered at night have been repulsed. The importance of the engagements at Rheims lies in this, that German success in the French center would relieve the pressure upon Von Kluck at the German right and the crown prince at the German left, and might compel a general retreat of the allies to the fortifications of Paris.

Mr. Payne Enjoys Visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Payne returned home Tuesday night from St. Louis after a visit to his sister, Mrs. Mary Haynes. While West Mr. Payne went to see his brother, Mr. Roy Payne at Hillsboro Texas, they had not seen each other for twenty five years. Mr. Payne also had a most enjoyable visit to Durant, Okla; where he was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Haynes, Mr. and Mrs. George Short. He said he was royally treated by the former residents of Cloverport who are handsomely situated in Durant.

THREE FUNERALS AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Deaths of Mrs. Marvin Beard. Mrs. Ed Beard and Mr. Godfrey Ball Bring Sadness to Hardinsburg.

TWO FUNERALS ON SUNDAY.

Hardinsburg, Sept. 21.—(Special).—Saturday morning at two o'clock Mr. Godfrey Ball answered the death summons after several months of intense suffering from dropsy. Just a short time ago Mr. and Mrs. Ball came here from Athens, Ohio, to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hardee Ball, hoping that being at the home of his boyhood days and among relatives and friends that he would be benefited. He was given every care and attention but grew gradually worse until the end.

The funeral services were conducted at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at two o'clock by Rev. S. K. Hunt, after which he was laid to rest in the Ivy Hill cemetery.

Mr. Ball leaves a wife, sisters, brothers, a number of relatives besides a host of friends by whom he will be greatly missed. To these we tender our sincere sympathy.

"In the midst of life we are in death."

Lovely Woman Answers Death's Call

Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints.

God in His infinite wisdom called from our midst Saturday afternoon the sweet spirit of Mrs. Marvin D. Beard. For the last eight and one-half years she has been a great sufferer. Yet she bore it like a brave soldier of the cross, and through it all she was a great comfort to her family and friends. She always greeted her friends with a smile. At the close of day when her husband would come home from business tired she was his comforter.

Mrs. Beard was devoted to her church. Her last gift was a silver communion service that was presented to the church Sunday morning in memory of her eldest son who departed this life just three months ago.

At four o'clock Sunday afternoon at the M. E. church, South, the funeral services were conducted by Rev. M. L. Dyer, her pastor, and Rev. J. W. Hughes. As requested by deceased, Miss Della Kincheloe sang "Perfect Day."

Mrs. Beard leaves a devoted husband, two boys, mother, Mrs. A. M. DeJarnette, and sister, Mrs. E. H. English, of Berea, relatives and friends. To those who weep for her departure she left no heritage of truth that can not fade away.

"Heaven now retains our treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps;
And the sunbeams long to linger
Where our sainted friend sleeps."

Dies in Louisville.

And so beside the silent sea,
I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where his islands lift
Their frothed palms in air,
I only know we can not drift
Beyond his love and care.

—Whittier.

On the eighteenth of September at her home in Highland Park, Louisville, Mrs. Ed Beard (nee Stella Scott), was called by her Heavenly Father to be with Him.

In the early spring Mrs. Beard was operated on for tumor, and for a time seemed to improve. About six weeks ago the tumor returned. When told by her family physician that the end was near she planned the future for her devoted husband and two little boys.

Having spent her girlhood days here she requested to be brought here and buried. Her sufferings were great during her last illness, but she bore it all with Christian fortitude. Her departure leaves sorrow in the hearts of many, especially the devoted husband, two little boys and sister and brothers. Rev. Bagby, her pastor, conducted the funeral services Monday afternoon at the Baptist church. The interment was in Ivy Hill cemetery.

Miss Laura Satterfield Ill At Her Home On The Hill.

Miss Laura Satterfield is ill at her home on the hill and is not improved. The Hill items which she has been writing for The Breckenridge News are a great deal of interest and everyone enjoys reading them.

From Tennyson's "Locksley Hall."

For I dilt into the future, far as human eye could see,
Saw the Vision of the World, and all the wonder that would be:
Saw the heavens fill with commerce, argosies of magic sails,
Pilots of the purple twilight, dropping down with costly bales;
Heard the heavens fill with shouting, and there ruined, a ghastly dew
From the nation's airy navies grappling in the central blue.

Far along the world-wide whisper of the south-wind rushing warm,
With the standards of the peoples plunging thro' the thunderstorm:

Till the war-drum throbb'd no longer, and the battle flags were furl'd

In the Parliament of man, the Federation of the world,
There the common sense of most shall hold a fretful realm in awe,
And the kindly earth shall slumber, lapt in universal law.

I enclose herewith an extract from Tennyson's "Locksley Hall." It at least shows a wonderful vision of the future as he saw it at that time. It seems quite remarkable to me that he should have written this so many years ago, when the probabilities are that telephones, airplanes, etc. were not dreamed of. I assume there are numbers of Tennyson's poems in your city, and I thought it would be interesting to many to read this.—Frank Warfield, Louisville, Ky.

NEW REVENUE BILL BEFORE HOUSE

Majority Leader Underwood Puts It Up to the Members.

IT TAXES NUMEROUS ARTICLES

Beer, Wines, Gasoline, Sleeping and Parlor Car Tickets, Insurance, Telegraph and Telephone Messages, Amusements and a Variety of Documents Will Be Levied Upon in Order to Make Up Decrease in Revenues

Washington, Sept. 21.—Democratic Leader Underwood today introduced in the house the emergency revenue measure agreed upon Saturday by the Democratic members of the ways and means committee. The bill taxes beer, wines, gasoline, sleeping and parlor car tickets, insurance, telegraph and telephone messages, amusements and a variety of documents. Republicans members of the ways and means committee will be called in tomorrow to vote on the bill. The house will begin considering it next Thursday.

Republicans of both house and senate already have gone on record in opposition to any war tax measure. The Democrats hope to rush the bill through the house and the big fight against it, it is realized, will be in the senate.

The committee increased the internal revenue tax on beer by 50 cents a barrel, making the new tax total $1.50. Gasoline is to be taxed 2 cents a gallon. Stamp tax provisions of the bill and the tax on tobacco dealers, brokers, bankers and amusements are carried in schedule A which will continue in effect until Dec. 31, 1915. The remainder of the bill will be in force until repealed.

Bankers are to be taxed $2 on each $1,000 of capital, surplus and undivided profits; brokers will pay $30 each, pawnbrokers $20, commercial brokers $20, customs brokers $10. Proprietors of theaters, museums and concert halls in cities of 15,000 population or over are to pay $100 each. Circus proprietors are to pay $100 a year, proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms $5 for each alley or table.

Tobacco dealers and manufacturers are to be taxed the same as in 1898 except that in the largest class, "tobacco dealers not specifically provided for," the tax is to be $4.50 each in 1898 there was a $12 tax on tobacco dealers having annual sales of 50,000 pounds or more.

Bonds and certificates of indebtedness are taxed 5 cents for each $100 involved, and freight and express receipts 1 cent each, with a mandatory provision that the shippers must pay this tax. Telephone messages are to be taxed 1 cent on all tolls of 15 cents or more and telegrams 1 cent a message.

The bill carries taxes of 50 cents on each indemnity bond, 2 cents on each certificate of profits, 24 cents on each certificate of damage and 10 cents for each certificate not especially provided for.

Life insurance policies are to be taxed 8 cents on each $100, and fire marine, casualty, fidelity and guaranty insurance policies 1-2 cent on each $1, as in 1898.

PUT OUT OF COMMISSION

German Cruiser Successfully Attacks British War Vessel.

London special: The British cruiser Pegasus in an engagement with the German cruiser Koenigsberg, was put out of commission. Twenty-five of the crew of the British cruiser were killed and four score wounded. The engagement was fought in the harbor of Zanzibar.

The Pegasus was outranged by the Koenigsberg's guns and was completely disabled, according to the admiralty's statement. The Koenigsberg was apparently uninjured. The Pegasus since the outbreak of fighting has been operating with Zanzibar as a base. She figured in the destruction of Dar-es-Salaam and also sank the German gunboat Mowe.

The admiralty reports that the German cruiser Emden captured five British ships, five of which were sunk and the sixth sent with the crews of the sunken vessels to Calcutta. The British cruiser Carmanlia went into action with a German armed merchant cruiser. The action lasted one hour and forty minutes, when the German ship was captured. The survivors were rescued by a collier. The Carmanlia's casualties were nine killed and twenty-seven wounded.

LARGE FUNERAL

Held in Memory of Mrs. Eliza H. Allen—Dies at Her Home Near Cloverport Sunday.

Mrs. Eliza Houston Allen died at her home near Cloverport Sunday. Her death was expected on account of a year's illness and advanced age. Her condition changed for the worse three weeks ago. She was born and reared at the Oglesby Homestead, where her brother, Mr. Edward Oglesby and Mrs. Oglesby, and sister, Miss Kate Oglesby, make their home. In early womanhood she was married to Mr. William Allen.

The death of Mrs. Allen is the passing away of a deeply loved member of one of the first and oldest families of this community. Her funeral Monday afternoon was largely attended at her home. Many drove in buggies and were present at the burial in the Cloverport cemetery. The services were conducted by the Rev. E. O. Cottrell of the Baptist church of which Mrs. Allen was a member for years.

Mrs. Allen leaves the following children: David and William Allen, Heman and Joe Allen, Mrs. John Blythe and Miss Annie Allen.

More Good Roads.

The pike out the Brandenburg road has been completed to the fair grounds. While it is only a mile in length it is a beginning and should be added to year after year until it extends to the boundary line between Grayson and Breckenridge counties. We now have the road-making machinery and by judicious use of the road funds, supplemented by the free labor, many in a few years have good roads on the main thoroughfares of the county.—The Leitchfield Gazette.

At the conclusion of the business of organization, Miss Fannie Smith, of Cloverport, played an accompaniment for Mrs. L. T. Reid, who sang several charming selections.

Mrs. E. P. Kelly, a talented musician, gave an instrumental solo, and Messrs. Henry B. Brown and Dorsey Powers also gave instrumental selections.

Mrs. Reid is president of The Cloverport Musical and Choral Club and her success at Hawesville in organizing a club there is very pleasing to her own club at home. Cloverport and Hawesville musicians may have happy relations during the coming winter by meeting together and giving musical programs.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

How To Feed Your Boy After School.

A Massachusetts woman makes the following suggestion: "A friend of mine, who has three hungry boys of different ages who come home from school clamoring for some thing to eat, has devised this scheme to keep them out of the pantry. She has three boxes plainly lettered with their names, and after luncheon she fills each with whatever is best for that particular boy.

Resolutions Adopted by the Breckenridge County Teachers' Institute.

To the end that the sentiment and opinion of this Institute as a unit, may be expressed, and that not only the public generally may know the tasks we mean to accomplish, but that we, ourselves, by concentrating our efforts may have a greater influence for the accomplishment of our ideals, it is necessary that we embody our ideas into a working unit. Therefore, be it, Resolved, 1. That we extend our thanks for, and express our appreciation of the untiring efforts of Mrs. W. E. Lennon who has so faithfully presided as pianist during this Institute. Also to Misses Hallie and Fannie Lee Brown, Della Kincheloe, Hannah and Judith Beard, Mildred Moorman, Martha and Isabella Gardner, Ruth Harned and Mrs. Henry Trent. We express our appreciation of the excellent vocal and instrumental music they have rendered during this session. To the Rev. M. L. Dyer, Rev. S. K. Hunt and Rev. R. T. Laslie we extend our thanks for the interest they have shown and assistance they have rendered. And to all others who have in any way contributed to the success and interest of this Institute we are sincerely grateful.

2. We heartily indorse the work of the Louisville Anti-Tuberculosis League in its efforts to stamp out this dread disease, and pledge ourselves as teachers to lend our assistance in the work.

3. We endorse the movement started by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart for the purpose of stamping out illiteracy in Kentucky through the Moonlight Schools or whatever other effort may most efficiently accomplish the desired end. We commend Mrs. Chas. P. Weaver in her efforts toward organizing school leagues, and especially her untiring efforts in bringing the question of woman's suffrage before the minds of the people in a way in which they may give it due consideration.

4. We recommend that our County Superintendent appoint a committee, the duty of which shall be to number and classify the books in the Teachers' Library and to recommend new books to be purchased.

5. We appreciate the untiring efforts of County Supt. J. W. Trent, toward making the Institute a success, both in point of working out school problems and as a social gathering.

6. We indorse the work of the Kentucky Educational Association and the principles set forth in its "Declaration of Aims."

7. We heartily indorse the untiring effort put forth by Prof. Williams to make the Breckenridge County Institute a success, and are glad that the people of this county are realizing the value of such an able and worthy man, and home talent. We further indorse and recommend that the teachers of this county try, and if possible, carry to their respective schools the important and matchless work and suggestions given by Mrs. Romer, and realizing that money has no value for such services as she renders, that the beneficiaries of this Institute may go with her wherever she may chance to go. All of this we freely extend.

8. In order that the school may be brought closer to the life of the community and that the community may be made to realize that the school is a factor for good we recommend that the principles of elementary agriculture be introduced into the graded and high schools, and that the school be made the social and educational center of its community. To this end we endorse the work given by Prof. Charles B. Bannan.

9. We commend the efficient work of our secretary, Miss Ida B. Marr, in keeping the minutes, etc., of the Institute, and highly appreciate her marking us present whether or not we were.

10. We accord a hearty welcome to the many distinguished visitors, and especially those who have shown the interest to become honorary members of the Institute.

11. We recommend that the Institute be convened next year not earlier than the second Monday in September.

12. We favor a system of rural supervision for Breckenridge county schools, and recommend that as soon as practicable, steps be taken to bring about an effective system of rural supervision.

13. We pledge our united support to the County High School and State Normal Schools, and to the work being done for Kentucky through the splendid work of especially the Western Normal, and recommend that every teacher strive to bring about the time when Breckenridge county schools shall all be taught by teachers having had High School or Normal training.

14. To Prof. J. S. Dickey, whose interest and devotion to the teaching profession is an inspiration to every teacher, we express our appreciation for the interest he has shown in the cause of education in Breckenridge county.

15. We express our sincerest regrets that our former Superintendent, Andrew Driskell, is to leave the county in which he has devoted such a large measure of service to the cause of education, and commend him to those with whom his lot is to be cast and with whom he will labor as one whose heart is in the cause.

JULES VEDRINES

French Aviator Successfully Carries War into the Air.

Paris special: Jules Vedrines, the noted aviator, sighted a German aeroplane over a French camp and started in pursuit. He got above the German machine and by a well-directed fire sent it tumbling to the earth. This was the second machine which Vedrines had brought down in three days.

FRENCH INFURIATED

Bombardment of Rheims Declared Indefensible.

Paris special: Rheims, one of the most beautiful cities in France, with 105,000 population, an important link in the French defenses, is in flames following the furious bombardment of three days by the Germans, in which 400 civilians were killed and in which the famous cathedral, dating back to the twelfth century, and a greater portion of the city were demolished by shells.

Many wounded German soldiers who were sheltered in the cathedral were killed by the fire from the German cannon, as were four nuns who were acting as nurses. An official dispatch from Bordeaux declares there is little hope of saving the city from complete destruction.

The news that Rheims is in flames has infuriated the French people. Without question the bombardment of Rheims, an unfortified city, will be referred to the nations, along with the destruction of Louvain, as an example of German barbarity.

GROVER SLAIN BY BURGLAR

Milton Wagner of Rushville Victim of Housebreakers.

Rushville, Ind., special: Milton Wagner, forty-three years old, a grocer, was fatally wounded by a burglar shortly after 1 o'clock Sunday morning and died six hours later. Two men, who have not been identified, entered the house. As Mr. Wagner rushed downstairs a burglar with a gun commanded him to throw up his hands.

When Wagner failed to heed the command, the burglar shot and the two intruders fled. The bullet entered Wagner's spinal column.

THEN HE KILLED HIMSELF

Probably Insane Man First Killed His Wife.

Richmond, Ind., special: Wilson Shields, a prominent resident of Williamsburg, this county, believed to be insane, killed his wife and then himself. There were no witnesses to the crime. Shields had been acting peculiarly for several months and had several times threatened to kill his wife. It is said that Mrs. Shields had informed neighbors that he was jealous of her.

Editors Elect Officers.

Fort Wayne, Ind., special: Chester A. McCormick of the North Andover News was elected president and J. Ross Woodring of the Perry Journal was chosen secretary of the North Indiana Editorial association in session here. Kokomo was selected as the next meeting place.

Body Nearly Cut in Two.

Plymouth, Ind., special: Clyde McCullough, a brakeman, was killed at Lepaz Junction when a freight car sent on a sliding did not clear and had to be pulled by a cable. The heavy chain was drawn tight in an instant and caught McCullough around the body, cutting him nearly in two.

The Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, according to reports from Berlin, declares that the rumored negotiations for peace are a practical joke published to produce the impression in neutral states that Germany is tired of the war.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper.

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in the back, bearing-down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value, should be a blessing to thousands of nervous, over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles at all drug stores.

PARIS' HIGHWAY DESCRIBED

Procession of Sixty Miles In Which All Types Are Represented.

HERE is a graphic description of the exodus from Paris in anticipation of a siege by the Germans as given in dispatches sent by Philip Gibbs, the novelist, to the New York Times and the London Daily Chronicle:

Along the road from Tours to Paris there were sixty unbroken miles of people. On my honor, I do not exaggerate, but write the absolute truth. They were all people who had despaired of breaking through the dense masses of their fellow citizens camped around the railway stations and had decided to take to the roads as the only way of escape.

The vehicles were innumerable, for which the rich paid fabulous prices; motor-cars which had escaped military requisition, farmers' carts, laden with several families and piles of household goods; shop carts, drawn by horses already tired to the point of death because of the weight of the people who crowded behind; pony traps and government cars.

Many persons, well dressed and belonging obviously to well-to-do bourgeois, were wheeling barrows like caskets, but instead of trundling caskets were pushing forward sleeping babies and little children, who seemed on the first stage to find new amusement and excitement in the journey from home. But for the most part they trudged along bravely, carrying their babies and holding the hands of their little ones.

Heroic Women of Culture.

They were of all classes, rank and fortune being annihilated by the common tragedy. Elegant women whose beauty is known in Paris salons, whose frivolity perhaps in the past was the main purpose of their lives, were now on a level with the peasant mothers of the French suburbs, and their courage did not fail them so quickly.

I looked into many proud, brave faces of these delicate women, wringing in high heeled shoes, all too frail for hard, dusty roadways. They belonged to the same race and breed as those ladies who defied death with fine disdain upon the scaffold of the guillotine in the great revolution.

They were leaving Paris now, not because of any fears for themselves—I believe they were fearless—but because they had decided to save the little sons and daughters of soldier fathers.

Every Type Represented.

This great army in retreat was made up of every type familiar in Paris.

Here were women of the gay world, poor creatures whose painted faces had been washed with tears and whose tight skirts and white stockings were never made for a long march down the highways of France.

Here also were thousands of those poor old ladies who live on a few francs a week in the top attic of the Paris streets which Balzac knew; they had fled from their poor sanctuaries, and some of them were still carrying cats and canaries, as dear to them as their own lives.

There was one young woman who walked with a pet monkey on her shoulder while she carried a bird in a golden cage. Old men who remembered 1870 gave their arms to old ladies to whom they had made love when the Prussians were at the gates of Paris then. Young boy students, with ties as black as their hats and rat tail hair, marched in small companies of comrades, singing brave songs, as though they had no fear in their hearts, and with very little food, I think, in their stomachs.

Brave Self Sacrifice.

Shopgirls and concubines, city clerks, young boys and girls, who supported grandfathers and grandmothers and carried newborn babies and gave pick-a-back rides to little brothers and sisters, came along the way of retreat.

When I met many of them they were almost beyond the power of words. Their tongues clung to their mouths with thirst.

Some of them had that wild look in their eyes which is the first sign of the delirium of thirst and fatigue. Nothing to eat or drink could be found on the way from Paris. The little roadside cafes had been cleared out by the preceding hordes.

Unless those people carried their own food and drink, they could have none except of the charity of their comrades in misfortune, and that charity has exceeded all other acts of heroism in this war. Women gave their last biscuit, their last little drop of wine, to poor mothers whose children were famishing with thirst and hunger; peasant women fed other women's babies when their own were satisfied.

A Highway of Tragedy.

It was a tragic road. At every mile of it there were people who had fainted on the roadside and poor old men and women who could go no further, but sat on the banks below the hedges, weeping silently or biding younger ones go forward and leave them to their fate. Young women who had stepped out so jauntily at first were foot-sore and lame, so they limped along with lines of pain about their lips and eyes.

Many of the taxicabs, bought at great prices, and many of the motor-cars, had broken down as I passed, and had been abandoned by their owners, who had decided to walk. Farmers' carts had bolted into ditches and lost their wheels. Wheelbarrows, too heavy to be trundled, had been tilted up with all their household goods spilt into the roadway and the children had been carried farther, until at last darkness came and their only shelter was a haystack in a field under the harvest moon.

I looked back upon the beauty of Paris all golden in the light of the setting sun, with its glittering spires and white gleaming palaces and rays of light flashing in front of the golden trophies of its monuments. Paris was still unbroken. No shell had come shattering into this city of splendor, and I thanked heaven that for a little while the peril had passed.

Good Stories of the War.

The following letter from a soldier at the front who has taken part in the first fighting appears in the Temps of Paris:

"We found on the field of battle the medicine chest of a vet. He was provided with scent and eau de cologne. He had even brought with him a rose ointment for the nails and a superb gilt shoulder belt which was to raise his prestige when he passed under the Arc de Triomphe. The battery to which he belonged is annihilated now."

Not to be outdone by "Tommy Atkins," who has adopted a war song in "It's a Long Way to Tipperary," the British sailors now have as their favorite "All the Nice Girls Love a Sailor."

The chorus of the war song of the British tars follows:

All the nice girls love a sailor,
All the nice girls love a tar,
For there's something about a sailor—
Well, you know what sailors are.
Bright and breezy,
Free and easy,
He's the ladies' pride and joy,
Jack ahoy! Naughty boy!

Stuck to Battery.

During the action at Le Cateau all the officers and men of one of the British batteries had been killed or wounded with the exception of one subaltern and two gunners. These continued to serve one gun and kept up a sound, raking fire and came out unhurt from the battlefield.

On another occasion a portion of a supply column was cut off by a detachment of German cavalry. The officer in charge was summoned to surrender. He refused and, starting the motor off at full speed, dashed safely through, only losing two wagons.

The Paris correspondent of the London Chronicle telegraphs:

"In the fighting at Compiègne, when the British captured several German guns, the Dragoon guards did wonderful work. There was one tremendous cavalry charge, in which these dragoons were accompanied by their farrier, armed only with his hammer, which he wielded with deadly effect, according to the men."

Bomb His Calling Card.

A correspondent of Le Petit Journal relates a characteristic interview with Jules Vedrines, the well known air man, who already has done distinguished service, but finds the service monotonous because he is not allowed more activity. His work is confined to reconnoitering for the troops and artillery. He says:

"If only they would let me go and leave my visiting card with Emperor William!"

Kaiser William's bust saved the life of a French soldier in Lorraine. The bust, which had been found in a village school, was placed in the soldier's haversack. A German bullet later struck the bust.

"More Waiting For You."

"Why, it's Kitchener!" gasped the wounded soldiers in St. Thomas' hospital, London, as the secretary of state for war stepped in for a visit of inspection, says a correspondent. Here's his chat with a trooper of the Royal Irish dragoons:

"How are you getting on?" asked Lord Kitchener.

"All right, sir," answered Trooper Craig.

"What's your regiment?"

"The Irish dragoons."

"How did you get that hand?"

"My horse threw me and stamped on it, sir, just before it got killed by a shell in a charge in Belgium."

"Ah, but you got into them, didn't you?" Lord Kitchener continued, with a knowing air.

"Oh, yes, sir, we did," answered the trooper with a laugh, in which Lord Kitchener joined.

"There are some more waiting for you, you know," was Lord Kitchener's parting remark.

Their Picnic Spoiled.

The French troops are brave and fearless, but too impetuous, says a correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle. He adds:

"Careless of quick fires, which experience should have taught them were masked behind the enemy's advance posts, they charged with the bayonet during the fighting at Creil and Compiègne. One can only admire the gallantry of men who dare to charge on foot against the enemy's mounted men and who actually put a squadron of them to flight, but one must say again, 'Cost magnifique, mais ce n'est pas la guerre.'"

"There have been many instances of heroism in these last days of fighting. It is, for instance, immensely characteristic of the French spirit that an infantry battalion, having put to flight a detachment of German outposts in the forest of Compiègne, calmly sat down to have a picnic in the woods until, as they sat over their hot soup, laughing at their exploit, they were attacked by a new force and cut to pieces."

Retreat of Diplomats.

"It was a unique sight," says the Paris correspondent of the London Daily Chronicle, "when the members of the foreign embassies and legations quit Paris for Bordeaux. They left in the dead of night, and their only illumination was moonlight."

"There was Sir Francis Bertie, in a black suit and bowler hat, talking to the Italian ambassador, who, with Signor Tittoni, was a distinguishable figure in gray and with a soft felt hat. Myron T. Herrick, the American ambassador, had come down with his wife to say goodbye to his conferees, and M. Ivolosky, the czar's envoy, was chatting with the Spanish ambassador, who, like Mr. Herrick, is remaining in Paris to perform the duties of courtesy that fall upon neutrals at such an exciting time."

"The windows of each carriage of the special train were labeled with the names of the countries whose representatives it was carrying off. There was even an inscription for the more or less imaginary republic of San Marino, but no one appeared to answer to this honorable name. There were the Persian minister and M. Romanos, a black bearded Greek, and the Russian military attache in uniform, and less braves Belzes, and all sorts of servants, including a Chinese nurse, who was feeding a yellow baby that had coal black eyes."

"At last a horn was blown and the train rolled away."

"Say what you like, it is no pleasant thing to see the world's delegates pack up their traps and leave the splendid city of Paris to its fate."

Women Nurses in Breeches.

"Among a party of nurses who left Folkestone for the front," says the London Daily Mail correspondent, "were a number of women wearing riding breeches and spurs and long coats and helmets similar to those worn in the tropics."

"Their duties will be to ride over the battlefield and look for the wounded and render first aid, after which the other nurses will convey the stricken soldiers to the base hospital in motor-cars. It is pointed out that many wounded have died owing to not having received immediate attention on the field."

A Novel Situation.

A newspaper correspondent made a motor trip to Brussels and tells of being ambushed by Germans. He says:

"We first sighted Germans when approaching a railway grade crossing outside of Aerschot. There were a hundred of them waiting for us behind a hedge, with rifles leveled. When a hundred yards away an officer in the trailing gray cloak stepped into the middle of the road and held up his hand and called out:

"Halt!"

"I jammed on the brakes."

"Are you English?" the officer demanded in a friendly tone.

"No, American," I said.

"I know America well," he said. "Atlantic City and Niagara Falls and Coney Island. I have seen all your famous places."

"Imagine standing in the middle of a Belgian road, surrounded by German soldiers who looked as though they would rather shoot you than not, and discussing the relative merits of hotels at Atlantic City with an officer of an invading army!"

Paint Horses Green.

"The Russian Cossacks have painted all their white and gray horses green, making them indistinguishable with the foliage, so that their movements cannot be seen by scouting aeroplanes," says a London correspondent. This plan was first adopted by the British in the struggle with the Boers.

A British agent who is buying 10,000 horses and mules in Missouri is rejecting gray ones. He says they can be seen farther than animals of any other color.

Treed Their Prisoners.

When the Belgians cut the dikes, flooding the country around Termonde, the water came in so suddenly in many places that German troops were taken by surprise and were obliged to climb trees to escape drowning. Here many of them were later found by Belgian troops and taken prisoners. Most of them were glad to surrender.

First Aid by Police Dogs.

Police dogs are being used in this war in Red Cross work for the first time, says a Paris correspondent. They are reported to be giving excellent results. They have been trained to discover the wounded man and to bring him up or another piece of his wearing apparel back to the headquarters of the Red Cross, and then to lead a nurse to the place.

King Alfonso is very English in some of his expressions. For instance he was discussing with a well known British peer the difficulties and dangers of kingship.

"So you think, sir," remarked the peer, "that it is rather a thankless task being a king?"

"It is rather difficult work at times," replied his majesty with a grin. "but it is indeed well paid!"—London Globe.

Nothing can be good for everything. Doing one thing well brings success. Doan's Kidney Pills are for one thing only.

For weak or disordered kidneys. Here is reliable evidence of their worth.

Mrs. F. M. Boswell, Seventh street, Cannelton, Ind., says: "Some time ago I suffered terribly from back-ache and couldn't bend or stoop. I was also bothered at night, being unable to rest well and during the day I was in such misery that I could hardly walk. Nothing helped me, although I tried everything I heard of. Finally Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I got a box. They helped me so much that I continued taking them until I was relieved of the troubles. I have had no return of kidney complaint, and I am willing to give this statement in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills."

ON TO SILESIA

Next Step In Advance of the Czar's Forces.

Petrograd special: A large Russian force is bombarding Przemyśl, in which there are said to be 60,000 Austrians. The Russian forces have swept on from the east and north, endeavoring to capture the armies of Von Auffenberg and Dankl. The former commander is said to be seeking the protection of the defenses at Cracow. The campaign against Cracow, which begins the campaign against Silesia, now can be pressed, since the line of forts from Przemyśl to Jaroslavl has been broken with the capture of the latter fortress, thus giving the Russians the command of the railway from Lemberg to Cracow.

The news of the capture of Jaroslavl and Sienava is confirmed. Sienava was stormed and the Austrians felt back upon Jaroslavl, twenty-two miles northwest of Przemyśl. The Russians pursued so energetically that the Austrians had no time to make a stand at Jaroslavl. A small garrison was left when attempted a defense. The Russians bombarded with such effect that the city was set afire and the garrison surrendered.

The Germans and Austrians are fortifying a line from Cracow toward Przemyśl, and everything points to the determination of the Austro-German force to make a stand in front of Cracow. If successful their plan is to use Cracow as a base for operations aimed at the recovery of Galicia. The government regards Galicia as permanently conquered, however, and will now throw not less than 1,000,000 of its best troops against Cracow. There is ground for stating conservatively that Russia plans to use 5,000,000 soldiers in the forthcoming campaign. There are reports from all sides of detachments of Austrian troops muniting and surrendering at every opportunity.

There is increasing evidence that the Russians are again on the advance in East Prussia and that General Rennenkampf, the Russian commander in that quarter, is forcing back the Germans. It is reported that a German cavalry division made up of Saxons has been cut to pieces in East Prussia. Other reports assert that the Russians again have defeated the remnants of the second German landwehr corps under General Woersch, and frustrated an attempt by the Germans to cross the Vistula and aid the Austrians. It is said that General Von Hindenburg, the German commander in East Prussia, is hastening southward to make a demonstration toward Warsaw, the plan being to divert the Russian armies now enveloping the Austrians. Military critics assert that the latest Russian victories, together with the investment of Przemyśl and the movement upon Cracow, will favorably affect the chances of the allies in France. Now that the Russian advance is really dangerous, it is concluded that Germany must find vast numbers of troops to defend her territory on the east and that a further offensive in France must be abandoned.

SURVIVORS GIVE DETAILS

Only Two on Board the Leggett Lived to Tell Tale.

Astoria, Ore., special: Between seventy and eighty men, women and children, coastwise passengers and crew, were drowned when the three-masted steam schooner Francis H. Leggett was pounded to pieces in a gale sixty miles from the mouth of the Columbia river.

Two men were rescued by passing steamers and carried to Astoria and Portland to tell how the sea tore the vessel to pieces, and how the passengers were drowned, a boat load at a time, as the lifeboats put off or how their fate a little later when the vessel turned over.

Sacred Shells.

The clever priests of China often insert tiny images of Buddha within the shells of a living oyster, which are left undisturbed for about a year. At the expiration of that time the images are covered with mother of pearl to such an extent that they appear to have grown in this natural manner. The Chinese people hold these shells in great reverence, believing that Buddha dwells within them. However, should a Christian chance to look upon one of the shells it has no further value to them, as its charm is supposed to have left it. --Scientific American

WHAT "SHOCK" MEANS.

How It May Affect the Physical and Mental Systems.

In medical language "shock" means the depression of the vital forces, both mental and physical. The condition may result from many causes and may vary from a faintness and pallor that soon disappear to a state so desperate that the sufferer dies of it, as in the case of serious accident or difficult surgical operations.

Shock may also be the result of an overpowering emotion, like great terror. That kind of shock is often seen in the survivors of any terrible accident. Many who have not got so much as a scratch suffer for a long time from a state of impaired health. Sometimes their nervous systems are so badly shattered that they never entirely recover. That is one of the many reasons why foolish practical jokes are wrong. It is not funny to dress up like a ghost, to jump out on timid children from behind doors, to play "jokes" with dead mice or snakes. And such pranks are dangerous as well as stupid. Many an unfortunate child has been made the slave of fear all his life by reason of a shock that some playmate gave him in his youth. The remedies that the physician uses are those which will restore the blood to its normal flow and stimulate the vital functions. For shock associated with great loss of blood the best thing is to inject salt solution. For shock without hemorrhage, a stimulant of some kind is generally given. --Youth's Companion.
